To whom it may concern:

It gives me great pleasure to recommend Simon Lægdsgaard Madsen for a position in your organization. I have known him for almost a year, where he has been one of the instructors in an introductory management course taught by me. He has shown a thorough understanding of the subjects and helped the students in the most pedagogical way in leading them through often difficult assignments. Moreover, he has been the natural leader amongst the instructors and has always anticipated administrative problems and found solutions to them, without first having to involve me. He has shown himself to be a born leader with a balanced temper, and in spite of his age he is very mature and socially gifted.

I am convinced that Simon Lægdsgaard Madsen will be a positive contributor in any position that can make use of his many skills and talents.

Many kind regards.
